We formulate classical mechanics on a general group manifold, defining the natural symplectic structure as the 2-form $\omega = \sum_i dp_i \wedge dq_i$, with p being the momentum and q the left-invariant coframe. We verify that our formulation has the desired invariance properties and satisfies Liouville's theorem, and thus satisfies the conditions required for use in the hybrid Monte Carlo algorithm.

The constraint equations (Gauss' law) which appear in Yang-Mills classical mechanics are studied at the classical and quantum level, with particular emphasis on their integrability properties. Classically the constraints are found to be of non-integrable type, contrary to what is known to happen in the quantum case, where the dependence of the ...

classical mechanics, or in the classical limit of quantum mechanics, as we usually say. This phenomenon is well understood by now (see, e.g. refs. [3, 4]). We think of dynamical chaos as random motion (in the sense of Alekseev) of a purely dynamical system without any random parameters or any noise.
