Modernists and Mavericks: Bacon, Freud, Hockney and the ...

Martin Gayford, the author of "Modernists and Mavericks," is a terrific writer on the arts, and this book is the obvious and organic meeting of author and its subject - The London artists of the post-war years. For one, Gayford knows David Hockney and Lucian Freud, and he also interviewed all the living artists that are in this book.

Kitaj ' s proposal, made in 1976, that there was a “ substantial School of London ” was essentially correct but it caused confusion because it implied that there was a movement or stylistic group at work, when in reality no one style could cover the likes of Francis Bacon and also Bridget Riley. Modernists and Mavericks explores this period based on an exceptionally deep well of firsthand interviews, often unpublished, with such artists as Victor Pasmore, John Craxton, Lucian Freud, Frank ...
