This is the message of The Present Age -- to show a world that has sunk into despair, what drives individuals into despair, and how that despair paralyzes anyone who might try to escape from it. "Our age is essentially one of understanding and reflection, without passion, momentarily bursting into enthusiasm, and shrewdly relapsing into repose."

The Present Age: On the Death of Rebellion----

The present age is a rant on the change of times and the ideas in it matter even more today. Kierkegaard here talks about the loss of passion. loss of passion leading to indolence and the lack of action. Loss of individuality and the rise of mob mentality. It is an age of advertisement, an age of publicity.

The Present Age by Søren Kierkegaard—Goodreads

The Present Age (1846) The present age is one of understanding, of reflection, devoid of passion, an age which flies into enthusiasm for a moment only to decline back into indolence. Not even a suicide does away with himself out of desperation, he considers the act so long and so deliberately, that he kills himself with thinking -- one could barely call it suicide since it is thinking which takes his life.

S-ren Kierkegaard, "The Present Age" (1846)

Comments by Major Leslie Condon. "The present age" is almost a stock term familiar to Salvationists, stemming from the much-used verse - "To serve the present age....", which has expressed a purpose throughout Salvation Army history. It is, however, the present age of the late 1960's and 70's which claims the composer's attention in this attempt to express in music the background against which the modern young Christian has to work.

Is for the present age; A crusade for the rights of man To brighten history's page. Where labor faints and bows her head, And want consorts with crime; Or men grown faithless sadly say That evil is the time. There is the field, the vantage ground For every earnest heart; To side with justice, truth and right And act a noble part.

The Present Age Poem by Frances Ellen Watkins Harper----

" A revolutionary age is an age of action; ours is the age of advertisement and publicity. Nothing ever happens but there is immediate publicity everywhere. " — From The Present Age. In The Present Age (1846), Søren Kierkegaard analyzes the philosophical implications of a society dominated by the mass-media. What makes the essay so remarkable is the way it seems to speak directly to our time—i.e. the Information Age—where life is dominated by mere "information" not true ...
